

Heber City Council Reviews Parking Ordinance in Meeting

HEBER CITY (LRJ) The Heber City council in its June 27 meeting and public hearing approved an amendment to Ordinance No. 199. The change, a recommendation of the Planning Commission, provides authority to the Board of Adjustments to grant a variance to the required number of off street parking spaces in the C-3 Central Commercial Zone under the following conditions: 1) If the variance is needed to maintain the use of structure in the district 2. there is not available to the structure on the site the required number of off street parking spaces, 3) and if the required number of off street parking spaces or ground for such have not been split off the site since the date of this amendment.

The Mayor also read the resignation of Building Inspector Richard V. Carlile and motion was made to advertise for a replacement within thirty days.

Bids were opened for two police cars. Three bids were offered which all came close to $9,750. Definite figures could not be given for 1985 models but police packages were offered along side specifications indicated by the city. Choice was turned over to Councilman Wright to review the offerings with the Police Chief and make a final decision.

Eldon Roberts representing the Florence Subdivision to be located in the southwest part of town received approval to proceed with that project.

Application for a mini-bottle license was approved for Jeff Stockman of the Blazing Saddles Restaurant. Final Licensing is approved and granted by the state.

Albert Winterrose also received permission to proceed with previously parallel parking behind his complex at Valley Fair. Trees behind Day's Market are to be removed replanted in Central Park. Curbs and gutters will be removed and replaced so that parallel parking will exist within the permitted area. The city approved his request to continue the new parking south to include the street on the east of Zion's National Bank.

The council also approved that snow load limits be raised to 50 pounds per square foot. New construction will be required to meet that roof specification. It was felt that most contractors are doing that now.

Wave

Inside this Issue

Editorial.....	3A
Lifestyle.....	1B
Classified.....	5A
Sports.....	3B

984

Issue 17

25c

Strawberry Boat Camps Close Hardships and Tears Shared

STRAWBERRY RES.—There were more than just tears shed on Sunday afternoon, as the July first deadline closed on the cabin owners in the Strawberry Reservoir Boat Camps.

Flustered, enraged, and discouraged were many of the words that were used in describing the owners asked for another extension.

Bureau of Reclamation officials let out a contract for the clean-up and final demolition of any building left standing. Tayco Construction of Duchesne was awarded the contract, and has 40 days to clean up the debris are in the Strawberry Camp. Many of the out houses used small and substandard tanks in the early years of the camps. These tanks have Wasatch County Health Officer Phil Wright concerned, and the BOR concerned as well.

Wright stated that the Bureau has extended monies to the county